

Cimarron Art Gallery, “The Gallery with Great Taste” has been owned by Valerie Kutz and Victoria Fernandez for over 20 years.

“As a year round gallery, we’ve had the pleasure of meeting hundreds of thousands of wonderful people from all over the world. Though the gallery keeps us very busy, we still find time to make ourselves available for community projects and activities.

John White watercolors have been a mainstay for 17 years. His Southwest landscapes are sure to captivate many a collector.

The whimsical, handmade, sure to make you smile sculptures by New Mexico artist, Juan Sandoval, are highly collectable. After all, First Lady Laura Bush and Governor Rick Perry own his work. Our largest collector of Juan’s work has nearly 60 pieces!

Susan Williams is an equine, fine art photographer. Through her work, she explores the eternally powerful and magical essence of the horse. They grant her access to their infinite expressions. Williams work has been published and exhibited throughout the United States.

You will also find a very large selection of Navajo, Zuni and Santo Domingo jewelry along with many pieces of jewelry designed and created by Stacy Fontana. These are just a few of the 15 artists we carry so we’d love for you to come and see them all.

So, let’s get back to “The Gallery with Great Taste”. We have a genuine, working, 1937 soda fountain (as seen in Sunset Magazine and New Mexico Magazine). We’ve made lots of sweet treats over the years, just the way you remember, old fashioned and delicious. We also have a delightful coffee bar-lattes & cappuccinos, mochas to macchiato--it’s all good.

The Cimarron Art Gallery will be running various specials through the Holiday Season. Be sure to stop in for a coffee...a soda...and ART!
